3.1 Add units to My Study Plan

- This form must be submitted by 5pm on the Friday of the first week of classes for a 12-week semester, or by 5pm on the first day of term for a 6-week term.
- It is your responsibility to check the timetable availability when requesting to add a unit, and make sure the unit's classes do not create a timetable clash.
- You must check the unit you want to add is running for the particular teaching period you are requesting.

3.2 There are some things you need to know if you're applying to withdraw from a unit after Census date

- The census date is the last day you can withdraw from a unit without being liable for all fees that relate to that unit.
- You will also incur an academic penalty (fail grade) if you withdraw from a unit after the academic penalty date.
- For more information on the last day to withdraw from units without incurring financial liability and academic penalty please visit Academic Calendar. Please note you cannot withdraw from a unit after the last day of classes for the teaching period.

3.3 Information about overloading

- In order to be approved to overload you must have completed at least 50 credit points of study and have an overall average of 60% or greater across all studies.
- Further important information for students requesting to overload
- The maximum overload is 50 credit points (usually four units of study).
- Students who have been identified as having unsatisfactory academic performance are not permitted to overload.
- You should ensure that you are able to attend all activities for each unit of study in which you are enrolled.
- Overload approvals are provisional and may be subject to review based on your academic performance.
- The last day you can swap a unit is the Friday of the first week of classes. After this date, you will not be able to enrol in any more units.
- A unit(s) is not appearing on your Study Plan: Your request will be assessed and if approved, the requested units will be added* to your Study Plan for you to enrol into online. *You will receive an email notification once these units have been added.

3.4 Information about underloading

- Underload will only be approved in extenuating circumstances such as mental/physical health issues, financial difficulties, etc.
- Evidence of circumstances will need to be submitted with this form.
- Students have a sanction with the minimum and maximum number of units each teaching period.
- With the exception of your first teaching period of a course where you are required to study 2 units, each subsequent teaching period requires you to study 3 units.
- Please consult with StudentHQ to confirm last day to withdraw without financial penalty, or last day to withdraw without fail
- The census date is the last day you can withdraw from a unit without being liable for all fees that relate to that unit.
- You will also incur an academic penalty (fail grade) if you withdraw from a unit after the academic penalty date.
- For more information on the last day to withdraw from units without incurring financial liability and academic penalty please visit Academic Calendar. Please note you cannot withdraw from a unit after the last day of classes for the teaching period.
